DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicants' response to the office action (Paper No. 14) filed on February 7, 2003 has been entered and considered.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicants' response and arguments (Paper No. 15) have been fully considered and found not persuasive.

3. The following is the rejection made in the previous office action under 35 USC 112 second paragraph:

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 1 is indefinite and unclear for reciting 'ATH1 gene product' because it is not clear what the ATH1 refers to (i.e. does it refer to any gene product within the Arabidopsis thaliana homeobox region). For art purposes ATH1 is broadly read and the gene products within that region are considered for the following rejections.

Response to arguments:

Applicants' arguments and amendment (Paper No. 15) with respect to the rejection under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, has been considered and found not persuasive because applicants argue that ATH1 is fully disclosed in the instant specification and the sequence of ATH1 cDNA is provided in the Fig. 1 of the instant specification. The argument is fully considered however the specification cannot be read into the claims. The metes and bounds of the claims are unclear and indefinite since the claims do not recite clearly the structural limitation of the ATH1 gene product hence the rejection is maintained.

Art Unit: 1637

4. The following is the rejection made in the previous office action under 35 USC 102(e):

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Meyerowitz et al. (USPN. 5,744,693).

Meyerowitz et al. teach a method for modifying flowering in plants wherein, Meyerowitz et al. teach that the method comprises transforming a plant with a construct comprising a sequence coding for a transcriptional factor of Arabidopsis thaliana. (agamous gene, equivalent to ATH1 gene product) under the control of a promoter functional in plants, wherein the gene modifies flowering in plants (see column 2, lines 17-32, column 7, lines 18-35). Meyerowitz et al. also teach that the method comprises construct with sense and antisense agamous gene product (see column 2, lines 17-25); the transformed plant produce recombinant agamous protein (see column 6, lines 63-67, column 7, lines 1-2); construct comprising antisense sequence in transformed plants inhibits the said protein. Thus the disclosure of Meyerowitz et al. meets the limitations in the instant claims.

Response to arguments:

Applicant's arguments (Paper No.15) with respect to the rejection made in the previous office action under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) to 1-4 has been considered and found not persuasive. Applicants' argue that the ATH1 gene product disclosed in the prior art of the record (Meyerowitz et al.) and the instant ATH1 gene product are different and have substantially different sequences and different DNA binding domains. The arguments are fully considered however, the structural limitations (ATH1 gene sequence) upon which the applicants relay is not in the claims. Therefore the rejection is maintained herein.

Conclusion

No claims are allowable.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
